

The Frank J. Campanale Center for Integrative Health

at Hill Country Community Clinic will further Frank's work to bring optimal health and compassionate healing to as many people as possible.

Community members like John and Evan will find a broad array of services at the new Center to help them keep their good health for a lifetime.

The Center will offer ancient, respected, and time-proven ways of healing in harmony with modern advances of 21st century medicine. It will make these rich and integrated forms of healing available to everyone, regardless of ability to pay, a unique offering in Shasta County.

If you have questions or would like to discuss your donation, please call:

Lynn Dorroh

530.337-6702, ext. 43

Hill Country Health and Wellness Center

Healthcare for the Whole Community

The Frank J. Campanale Center for Integrative Health

Frank and his two daughters,
Angelica and Anicea

Your donation to the Hill Country Community Clinic Health and Wellness Center can be counted toward this effort to name the Center for Integrative Health In Honor of Frank J. Campanale. Please use the special pledge card or indicate your designation on your check.

All donors will be invited to a special dedication ceremony when we finish construction on the Health and Wellness Center.

---

Our goal to name the Center for Integrative Health is $50,000.

Gifts may be in cash, stock, or pledges to be fulfilled by December 2010.

---

Healthcare
for the Whole Community

Frank J. Campanale was a beloved and devoted acupuncturist whose practice in Redding treated thousands of patients over twenty-four years. Frank was a kind and compassionate man and tireless, gifted healthcare provider who put in long hours so that he could help as many people as he could. Patients of Frank often remarked that they felt better when he simply walked into the room.

Frank J. Campanale, 1952 - 2006

Frank grew up in Boston, Massachusetts and studied acupuncture and herbal medicine in Japan, where he met his wife, Kazuko. Together, they ran his practice until his death in the autumn of 2006.

The Frank J. Campanale Memorial Fund

Frank, Kazuko, Angelica and Anicea

Frank was known for his mischievous sense of humor, his passion, his devotion, his humility, and his encyclopedic knowledge. One of his martial arts sparring buddies described him as "a warrior and a scholar," embodying the most noble qualities of each. Whether as scholar, warrior, healer, husband, father, or friend, Frank put his whole being into everything he did and it showed in the richness of his life and relationships.

As a member of HCCC's board of directors, Frank was excited about the prospect of putting his considerable knowledge, experience, and talent to work in helping Hill Country design the new integrative health wing of the Health and Wellness Center.

The Frank J. Campanale Center for Integrative Health

will initially include the following services:

- 🕯 Acupuncture
- 🕯 Chiropractic
- 🕯 Massage therapy

Frank was part of a network of healers throughout California and the world. His friend and colleague Dan Kenner, L.Ac., Ph.D. will be advising Hill Country as we plan the services that will be offered in our new integrative program. Dr. Kenner consults with practices all over the world to help them establish integrative health care programs.

